This map is for concept planning purposes only. The specific locations of natural resource boundaries, open space, parks, land uses, roads, trails, infrastructure and related improvements may change and is subject to on-site verification and design at the time of development.

Please note: The boundary of the Park Place Concept Plan (2008) is indicated in red on this graphic. The proposed code amendments would only affect property within the plan boundary that has been annexed, rezoned and proposed for development approval. Annexation, rezoning and development review require separate land use applications initiated by property owners.
